DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

- 1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
- 2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
- 3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
- 4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Deluca in view of Miyashita (US005574439A).

Regarding claim 1, Deluca et al disclose a system for sending a receiving graphics messages (see column 2, lines 42-67), which reads on the claimed, "method of sending a short message via a mobile communication device." A message originator can therefore press the buttons associated with the codes to provide graphics information to a selective call terminal (see column 2, lines 51-67), which reads on the claimed, "(a) acquiring a content of a short message, said content of said short message including at least a symbol," and, "(e) sending said personalized short message." When at least one predetermined code is recognized by the data communication receiver 100, a graphics message comprising one or more graphic images is presented to the user of the receiver 100 (see column 2, lines 42-67), which reads on the claimed, "(b) acquiring a definition of said symbol; (c) acquiring an inserting content…based on said definition of said symbol; (d) inserting said inserting content to replace said symbol to generate a personalized short message." Deluca et al fail to expressly disclose the inserting content includes a text message.

In a similar field of endeavor, Miyashita discloses a system where a code is replaced with text (see column 3, lines 26-40).

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Deluca et al with Miyashita to include the above replacing a code with text in order to avoid the need for a user to enter the entire message.

Regarding claim 2, the combination of Deluca et al and Miyashita disclose the graphic images available for presenting graphic messages are preferably stored by the data communication receiver 100 in, for example, a graphics database 155 (see Deluca et al column 3, lines 1-17), which reads on the claimed, "said mobile communication device includes a symbol database, and said step (b) further includes acquiring said definition of said symbol from said symbol database."

Regarding claim 3, the combination of Deluca et al and Miyashita disclose codes with a predetermined character, such as '#' are used to represent a graphic (see column 4, lines 33-51) or a word can be used (see Deluca et al column 6, lines 19-36), which reads on the claimed, "said symbol includes at least one of a name replacement symbol, an appellation replacement symbol, and an supplement content replacement symbol."

Regarding claim 4, the combination of Deluca et al and Miyashita disclose the graphic images available for presenting graphic messages are preferably stored by the data communication receiver 100 in, for example, a graphics database 155 (see Deluca et al column 3, lines 1-17 and figure 2), which reads on the claimed, "said mobile communication device includes an address table database, and said step (c) further includes acquiring said inserting content from said address table database."

Regarding claim 5, the combination of Deluca et al and Miyashita disclose codes with a predetermined character, such as '#' are used to represent a graphic (see column 4, lines 33-51) or a word can be used (see Deluca et al column 6, lines 19-36), which reads on the claimed, "said inserting content includes at least one of a name replacement symbol, an appellation replacement symbol, and an supplement content replacement symbol," wherein a graphic reads on at least a supplement content.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-5 have been considered but are most in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
